NECA NEWS Friday, September 21, 2018

From the desk of Miss Wilber -

What a joy it is to be at home in our new school building! I want to take this opportunity to praise the teachers for their hard work, adaptability, and optimism. Their commitment to the students' learning and formation is obvious. Our school is the beautiful place that it is because of who they are and the work that they do.

Our first Declamationes assembly, where students get an opportunity to share what they have learned, will be held at West Claremont Center for Music and the Arts on Friday, September 28, at 2:00p. I hope to see many of you there. It will be a great way to celebrate our school and the blessings we have received.

NECA News Letter To Get A Make Over

With the start of a new school year, in our new location, we have decided to change the format of our bi-monthly news letter. Instead of the usual announcements and reminders, we have decided to transform the news letter into a school newspaper. Students will be able to submit stories, poems, photographs, comics, interviews, news stories etc to be published in the paper. We would like to form a newspaper club that can meet twice a month to edit the newspaper. Do we have a parent that would be interested in overseeing this new club? Please let the office know.

New England Classical Academy's New Location

New England Classical Academy held their first day of classes at 59 Old Church Road on Wednesday, September 19, 2018. One could feel the excitement in the air building as each additional student arrived. This was the first time that classes were held in the new school. Their first glimpse, however, of their classrooms occurred on August 29, 2018 during the open house. Parents, students and neighbors at the open house were able to create their own sundae with the help from Kohl's Cares program and to meet their teachers for the up-coming school year. For many students, it was all about the bathrooms, which appear luxurious compared to last year's bathrooms.

Even though the school year began a little unconventionally, things are beginning to settle into a normal school routine now that classes have begun in the new school building. The school year began on September 10, 2018 after being delayed from the original first day of school on August 27. The first seven days of school, the students were able to explore different locations in throughout the surrounding area. At each location, they had the opportunity to learned the local history, flora and fauna, architecture, artist and their works.

We would like to take the time to thank West Claremont Center for Music and Arts, St. Gaudens National Park, Fort No. 4, Arrowhead, Ascutney State Park, Trinity and Union Churches and our staff for their assistance during this time.

The flexibility of our wonderful teachers, students and parents is one of the great aspects of our school community. Thank you for your understanding and ability to go with the flow.

Ben Carlson Named Student Of The Month

Ben Carlson is a freshman at New England Classical Academy. A smile is seen upon Ben's face no matter what he is doing. His quick wit tends to brighten those around him. Whether in his studies or activities, Ben is always willing to help, lead, and provide a positive role model to those around him. He was seen volunteering many hours over summer vacation to ready the new school building and grounds. His teachers are grateful and impressed by his commitment, generosity, and work ethic; and all without complaint. Ben is a consistent honor roll student who excels in his classes, especially in mathematics. He enjoys playing chess, reading, acting, fencing and hanging out with his Dad.
